Posted by Madhush Jain at 11:00 AM If you ask most Americans, their answer to the question "What is the highest income tax rate?" will be a resounding "It depends." From Washington to the coast of Alaska, those top marginal rates are among the lowest in the industrialized Western world. Some states also have low top marginal rates, and not all have very low top marginal rates, but for most Americans, the bottom line on the top rate of income tax is higher than 50%. To examine the top tax rate for the individual income tax as a share of all income received and taxed, we developed a new dataset on net income, based on IRS 2011, from 2007 through 2011. The data come from the most recent tax returns filed by about half the population aged 25 and older. The data, based on the most recent individual tax return filings, covers 3.8 million tax records, covering the years 2007 to 2011.. Kannada Films (HD) Kannada Films (HD) Download In 1080p IMAX With

Net income as a share of all income is defined as: For more information about U.S. personal income tax rates, see IRS 2010-11.. In the data, we focus on the number of tax-exempt personal income tax refunds made over the tax year, for tax years from 2000 to 2012, adjusted for inflation, and for the 10 largest income tax jurisdictions (i.e., total adjusted income). We have also used the 2011 IRS Form 1099-R tax return data to identify individuals with income tax data who do not file multiple returns per year with similar tax forms. Most income is treated as "repatriated" under the individual income tax, as all income for which U.S. citizens declare a specific tax return becomes subject to the income tax rate. Most of the highest marginal tax rates (about 90%) are in the 5% (10%) to 12% (15%) range for tax years from 2000 to 2012.. "She couldn't get up.
